

Violence against children in and around schools in Chad

Violence against children is preventable, and the education sector can play a critical role in driving change through schools and school systems. This note summarizes the state of school related violence in Chad, and highlights key data gaps.

Bullying refers to repeated emotional or physical aggressive behaviours including any form of isolating, rejecting or excluding from a group, or hitting, kicking, pushing by peers. Overall data on bullying is not available.¹ 3% of girls and 2% of boys aged 15-19 experienced physical attacks in the last 3 years (by any perpetrator), of which almost none occurred in schools.³

Sexual Violence takes different forms, and includes non-consensual completed or attempted sexual contact or acts of a sexual nature that do not involve physical contact, and any form of coercion into sexual situations. Available data indicates that 5% of females aged 15 to 19 experienced sexual violence in their lifetime.² Data on the location of the incident and the type of perpetrator are not available; therefore, it is not possible to determine whether sexual violence incidents occurred in schools. Additionally, data for boys is not available.

Corporal Punishment refers to any form of punishment involving physical force intended to cause pain or discomfort.

Data Gaps MICS 2019 provides data on physical attacks^{3*}, and corporal punishment by caretakers. MICS can be broken down by disability status, while other data cannot be disaggregated by LGBT+ or disability status.⁵ The table below denotes where data is available.

Notes

- International surveys cover different forms of violence and do not use a standard definition of violence.
- This brief covers international survey data. We recommend complementing it with national surveys (e.g., household surveys) when available.
- The violence figures included in this brief are likely an underestimate, as many victims do not disclose their experiences of violence.⁶
- Country comparisons created with DHS, VACS, and GSHS data, include low- and middle-income countries within +/- 3 years of Chad's survey round. Graphs created with MICS, TIMSS, PIRLS, PISA, PISA-D, and ERCE, include low- and middle-income countries with data on the same survey round.

- Examples of surveys that include questions on bullying are PIRLS, PISA, TIMSS, and GSHS.
- Calculations using DHS 2014. Surveys women aged 15 - 19. While DHS asks about teacher perpetrators of physical violence, we exclude from our analysis as the age range does not reflect the period when children are most likely to experience corporal punishment. If the focus is on physical violence against women by teachers starting at age 15, DHS data can provide relevant insights.
- Calculations using MICS 2019. For physical attacks, we cannot distinguish whether perpetrators were teachers or classmates.
